References

- As mentioned in the introduction, citations are unaltered excerpts from the specific editions provided by the digital library al-Maktabatu sh-Shāmilah. It should be noted that this library frequently revises editions (e.g. by adding vowel marks to texts).
 - The here given information about the works and their authors is also provided by al-Maktabatu sh-Shāmilah and has been supplemented in places.
 - Arabic names are transcribed in pausal form and not in full form in the references, in order to comply with the established standard.
 - In each section entries are arranged alphabetically, whereby the most common name is always taken into account and is written in small caps.
 - The specification of dates (death dates or dates of publication) is given in the following sequence: first the hijri date (AH) and then the Common Era (CE) date.
